Known for her unique ability to meld old school beauty with up to the minute trends, celebrity stylist Trina Washington has been a part of the industry for over a decade, respected by photographers, editors, producers and actors.

Starting her career at seventeen Trina became a licensed hairstylist. She worked hard to establish herself by beginning to organize fashion shows, hair shows, and makeovers while she was still in high school. Then her first six years of her career she worked at some of the best salons such as Regis, where she traveled to multiple salons to educate other stylist on the latest hair trends and techniques.

With bigger ambitions she moved to San Diego and opened up her first hair salon and began creating a brand for herself. After two years she relocated to the Inland Empire where she is currently building an upscale salon by the name of The Beaute Room.

Throughout the years Trina had participated as lead stylist in many bridal expos, makeup shows, and various photoshoots for T.V. and film. Also fashion show events including top brands like Lane Bryant and Ashely Stewart.

In 2013 Trina worked as lead hairstylist in the Oscar suites and made strong connections. She quickly found herself on assignment styling for the Grammys and the Oscars, including behind the scenes. With her unique ability to thrive under pressure, Trina began working fashion week in New York every season, quickly grasping what it means to be an editorial stylist.

Trina works in beauty, print, film, music video, runway, red carpet, celebrity, and advertising where her hair artistry is frequently covered by publications and brands such as Black Enterprise, Ebony Magazine, Jet Magazine, Family Dollar Business Insider, BET, UPTV, Proctor & Gamble, and Bounce TV.

With her up and coming salon Trina's love for her craft paired with her passion to make clients feel beautiful and confident is the gift that has set her apart and continues her success.
