

Ryan has spent over 35 years in entertainment. He has worked with Academy Award Winners Steven Spielberg, Robin Williams, Gwyneth Paltrow, and Maggie Smith in Hook, and Emmy Award Winners Sela Ward and George Clooney on NBC's Sisters, which he was a series regular for its entire six year run. He has also appeared in over 100 national commercials, having the lead role in selling products like Subaru, Coors Lite and Twix. Ryan's voice can be heard on the radio and television for McDonalds, Chevrolet and Taco Bell, as well as promo spots for the CW network and CBS. He's produced numerous short films and music videos, as well as the features, The Helix Loaded... and Just Another Day in the Neighborhood, a feature film shot entirely in one day for $10,000. Growing up on movie sets was a reality, one that continues today. He has also turned his sights on writing and directing. His first short film Open 24 Hours, has received outstanding reviews and was selected to play at the Arizona International Film Festival, San Jose Short Film Fest as well as Dances with Films. Ryan also wrote, directed and produced the feature film Do Over which was acquired by FreeStyle Media and received a world wide distribution deal available on all VOD platforms. He's currently in the Lionsgate western Hell On The Border with Frank Grillo and Ron Perlman and can next be seen in the indie horror Stay Out Of The Fcking Attic.
